I'm trying to build a Hello World .NET 5.0 project. I am using VS2017 and the .NET 5.0 template. I added some .NET Core stuff to the Hello World project and started to build it. However, the build process keeps complaining about not finding the .NET 4.6.1 Framework: Error CS0234 The type or namespace name 'Common' does not exist in the namespace 'Microsoft' (are you missing an assembly reference?) Since I don't have any old references to the .NET Framework that are referenced in my project, I suspect this is VS2017 trying to help me use the .NET 4.6.1 Framework. What can I do to stop this? A: The .NET 4.6.1 Framework is an amalgamation of the following .NET Frameworks and Platform Assemblies: .NET Framework 1.0 .NET Framework 2.0 .NET Framework 3.5 .NET Framework 4.0 .NET Framework 4.5 .NET Framework 4.5.1 .NET Framework 4.5.2 .NET Framework 4.6 .NET Framework 4.6.1 .NET Framework 4.6.2 You probably need to update one of the .NET 4.x frameworks. The one I would recommend is the 4.6.1. The reason being is that 3.5 and 4.0 are now considered legacy in Microsoft's .NET Framework naming conventions. According to the most recent FINRA filing (under penalty of perjury), this morning's Tri-County Transit's assets were valued at $257,746,000. Of that, $129,462,000 is in the form of cash and accounts receivable. That is an extremely generous valuation for a transit agency, but not necessarily the case. The transit agency's total debt was valued at $16,565,000, while its total revenues were valued at $311,719,000. The real value of the assets and revenues is about $323,000,000. That means according to the July 31 filing, Tri-County Transit has nearly 300 million in assets and 170 million in net assets. The average asset value for all of the 476 agencies in the top 1% of this universe is $76,055,560. The average net asset value for that same universe is $34,099,700. That is a pretty comfortable margin. And that doesn't take into account that the $323 million in net assets is cash and accounts receivable. But now we do have some kind of valuation. Below is a table of the asset values, net asset values, average asset values and net asset values for all transit agencies in the top 1% of this universe. I don't know if this will be of any f678ea9f9e
